ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE'S RULING
ON CEC MOTION TO REOPEN PHASE 2 RECORD
RELATIVE TO DEMAND REDUCTION PROGRAMS

By motion served on January 18, 2002, and filed on January 22, 2002, California Energy Commission (CEC) seeks to reopen the Phase 2 record for the purpose of re-evaluating cost data associated with various demand reduction (DR) programs. The motion includes the additional material CEC seeks to have included in the Phase 2 record concerning the prospective costs of modified demand response programs as proposed in CEC's November 9, 2001 filing.

CEC's motion is granted to the extent provided herein. The Phase 2 record is reopened for the limited purpose of re-evaluating cost data associated with various DR programs. Parties may file objections and responsive material as provided by this ruling.

IT IS RULED that:

1. The California Energy Commission (CEC) motion filed January 22, 2002 is granted to the extent provided herein. The Phase 2 record is reopened to re-evaluate cost data associated with various demand reduction (DR) programs.

Absent an objection filed and served within five days of today, the further information in the CEC's motion concerning prospective costs of modified DR programs shall become part of the record five days from today, and Phase 2 shall be resubmitted for decision five days from today, without further ruling. The resubmission shall be on all matters except the December 13, 2001 Department of Water Resources letter, which shall be addressed by separate ruling. (See Ruling dated January 11, 2002.)

2. An objection to the January 22, 2002 CEC motion filed within five days may include information that is responsive to the CEC material, and a request that the responsive material be included in the Phase 2 record.

3. If an objection to the January 22, 2002 CEC motion is filed, parties may file and serve replies to the objection, including replies to any responsive material. Such replies, if any, shall be filed and served within five days of the date the objection is filed.

4. If an objection is filed, a subsequent ruling will be issued on the objection, and whether or not the CEC information submitted with its January 22, 2002 motion, as well as any information contained in responses or replies, is or is not part of the Phase 2 record, along with the resubmission date of Phase 2.

Dated January 23, 2002, at San Francisco, California.
